

FACT SHEET

drugs alcohol and work

- * 73% of drug users age 18 and older are employed
 - 6.7 million full-time
 - 1.6 million part-time
- * In 1997, 6.8% of Americans employed full-time reported heavy drinking in the previous month.
- * Of the 11.2 million heavy drinkers in 1997, 30% were also illicit drug users.
- * Approximately 60% of illegal drug users work for companies with 500 or fewer employees.
- * 11% work for companies with fewer than 25 employees

By Industry

Of fully employed drug users aged 18-49, 17.3% were in construction, 16.3% food preparation, 15.4% waitstaff. Only 2.2% were administrative support staff, 2.3% teachers, and 2.6% child care workers. Of course more than 40% of illicit drug users are in other industries.

EFFECTIVENESS OF TREATMENT

A study of 4,411 people in a federally funded treatment program showed a reduction of illicit drug abuse by nearly 50% and by two-thirds for alcohol abuse in the 5-16 months after treatment. The percentage of people selling drugs, shoplifting or beating someone up in the past year dropped by almost 80% 5-16 months after treatment. The percentage of welfare declined from 40% to 35%.

Substance abuse costs businesses an estimated $100 billion annually. By supporting substance abuse programs, and a drug-free workplace, employers can:

- * increase productivity and raise employee morale
- * reduce absenteeism
- * reduce corporate liability
- * reduce errors and increase quality of performance
- * lower worker's compensation insurance or health insurance premiums and
- * improve safety

A 1995 survey showed that after a one year treatment, 668 substance abuse residents decreased absenteeism by 89%, tardiness by 92% and on-the-job injuries by 57%.

Employers can fight substance abuse by:

- * Recognizing that addiction treatment is a wise investment
- * Having a comprehensive substance abuse treatment program in place including support for bias-free dialogue
- * Offer health insurance policies for employees including equal coverage for substance abuse treatment

Based on current trends, in the year 2000, this country will spend $100 MILLION A DAY to incarcerate individuals with serious drug and alcohol problems.

For information about alcohol and drug abuse treatment programs in your community call 1.800.662.HELP

THESE FACTS WERE TAKEN FROM THE NATIONAL ALCOHOL & DRUG ADDICTION RECOVERY MONTH