Cannabis Use Disorder Treatment: Engaging the Client and Clinical Strategies

Friday, January 27, 2023

VIRTUAL Via ZOOM

TRAINER

Tanya Gouveia has two master's degrees in Crime & Justice Studies and in Public Administration from Suffolk University. She also holds two licenses to practice as a drug and alcohol counselor in the states of Massachusetts and Rhode Island. She is also an adjunct professor at Bristol Community College teaching in the substance abuse certificate program. Her work experience spreads throughout many settings and populations from corrections, residential treatment to outpatient services. With the ever-growing evolution of drug use and treatment, Tanya is committed to staying up to date with the latest trends and improved treatment modalities. As a result, she engages in extensive literature reviews for best practices and trains professionals in the field on the research she has reviewed. These trainings have been offered to several professional associations throughout Massachusetts and Rhode Island as well as educational institutions and state agencies.

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTION

With the global view and belief system that cannabis products are safe and medicinal, it has made treatment of substance use disorders more challenging. This training will focus on how to engage the client with a substance use disorder diagnosis and are either still using cannabis or have an intention of returning to cannabis use after they have completed their obligations for abstinence. Participants will be given recent statistics, demographics and trends of current usage. They will also be given clinical strategies and examples of effective engagement to help the clients better understand their substance use disorders, mental health, medical conditions, intention of use and how cannabis may exacerbate these conditions.
